

Block on West Michigan Avenue reopens

Season is winding down, and the fruits of contractors' labors are beginning to ripen on West Michigan Avenue in downtown Battle Creek.

There, workers have toiled since spring on the $2.2 million first phase of the $7.5 million streetscape project. It's part of the long-term, $85 million downtown transformation project.

Zoom
Kim Weiss positions markings in a left-turn lane on McCamly Street. / Kevin Hare/The Enquirer