

Ground breaks at new Math & Science Center

Dozens turned out in downtown Battle Creek today for a groundbreaking ceremony at the future home of the Battle Creek Area Math & Science Center.

Battle Creek Public Schools, owner and manager of the center currently housed at 765 Upton Ave., secured $14 million in private funding to renovate the former Cereal City USA museum at 171 W. Michigan Ave. and move the center there.

Today's ceremony marked the beginning of a long overhaul at the former museum. The new center is not expected to open to students until the fall of 2013.
